IN LOCAL THEATERS.

Nellie McHenry, at the Academy of Music this evening, will present "A Night at the Circus." Miss McHenry has for many years been one of the most prominent figures among American comedians, and undoubtedly one of the most popular. The play in which she is appearing this year has, according to all accounts, met with much greater success than any other stage production in which Miss McHenry has given her vivacious performance. She is assisted by a fine company.

Thursday night Tim Murphy, Eugene Cantfield and George Richards will produce "Lem Kettle" at the Academy of Music. These three clever comedians will be remembered as the leading members of several of Hoyt's farce comedy companies. They have joined forces this year and give a performance that is said to be very entertaining.

Innes' band at the Frothingham next Saturday afternoon and evening will repeat "War and Peace," the composition in which they were so successful a short time ago. It is a departure in musical and dramatic composition. It belongs to a class of its own, there being no known parallel to it in all musical history. Properly speaking, it is really a symphonic drama, with scenic accessories, all of which illustrate graphically the incidents related in the tone story. In his music, Mr. Innes has portrayed with intense realism the various events connected with the civil war, the causes of the conflict, the war itself and its close. Incidental to the composition he has injected very effectively the singing of war songs of both sections, the departure of volunteers to the scene of battle, terminating this feature with the return of the battle-scarred veterans.

RECEPTION FOR SINGERLY.

He Will Be in the City and Deliver an Address Thursday Night. Extensive arrangements are being made by the local Democracy for the reception of William M. Singerly, candidate for governor, who will pay a visit to this city Thursday night and deliver an address at the armory. The reception of the visitors has been taken in charge by the Volunteer Democratic club, which has invited the other clubs of the county to join with it. Mr. Singerly and party will arrive in this city from Wilkes-Barre at 6:30 and be met at the station by the clubs and then there will be a parade, fireworks, etc.

Woman's Temperance Work. The Women's Christian Temperance union held a largely attended meeting yesterday when it was decided to hold a public meeting at the Elm Park church on Friday at 8 p. m. PROMINENT MEN INTERESTED Banquet of the Scranton Civil and Social Club Developed Several Very Unexpected Facts—Attended by Many Well-Known Citizens.

The banquet given at the Bicycle Club house last night by the Scranton Civil and Social club included as guests and members seventy persons representing the best thought and most prominent men in the city's financial and professional circles. During the evening was developed several pronounced surprises: First, the banquet was the first given by the Scranton Civil and Social club of which Colonel H. M. Boies is president; John Jermyn and A. W. Dickson, vice-presidents; C. H. Welles, secretary and treasurer, and whose fifteen members are among the best known and most influential Scranton citizens, second, very few of the invited guests knew of the purpose of the banquet until Colonel Boies made an explanatory address; third, the subject of industrial training was discussed by international officers of the Young Men's Christian association who were present for that purpose.

While no reference was made to the purpose or need of manual training in connection with the Scranton Young Men's Christian association, it became apparent that the banquet would prove an opening wedge for establishing an industrial department in this city's association. Colonel Boies presided during the banquet, which was directed by Huntington. After a discussion of elaborate and tempting array of viands the following Young Men's Christian association officers were introduced: General Secretary Samuel F. Morse of the International committee, a nephew of the famous inventor of the telegraph; General Secretary Hicks, of the railroad department of the International committee; General Secretary Miller, of the Twenty-third Street, New York, association.

Purpose of Banquet Revealed. The introductory and welcoming address by Col. H. M. Boies revealed the origin of the Scranton Civil and Social club, its purposes and the future it may wield in matters connected with local questions of importance to the city generally. He said: "As president of this club I welcome you who are fortunately our guests, but who are unfortunately not members. While only a few of you know of the existence of our club, it has existed for a year, and some explanation of it will throw light on the purpose of this gathering and may possibly interest you. "It is the child of three circumstances. It happened merely by accident that eighteen or twenty of us met last fall at several social gatherings given consecutively and within a few days of each other. Our conversation gradually became franker and more entertaining and it was discovered that several were members of the American Society of Civics. From this developed the idea of discussing our interests as citizens and promoting objects for the city's good. The club has no political color.

"It is decided to have some discussion of important topics at every meeting which would prove of benefit and at the same time include a definite trend of thought. It happened recently that the subject of industrial training was brought to our notice, and we have provided for a consideration of this topic tonight. "There is justly placed great reliance upon general education, yet it is woefully deficient that it is almost entirely devoted to the mental and intellectual. The mind does not constitute the whole man, but should be allied with the spiritual and physical. Now I want to make an assertion which is not intended to voice the sentiment of the club, but which I make on my own responsibility: 'Present education is almost useless in after life.' Facts and not theory prove that statement. Our youth is educated almost entirely on mental lines, yet 90 per cent. later earn their living by manual labor.

Reason of Existing Poverty. "I make bold to say—and am not alone in the opinion—that the present want and depression in a land of plenty is due to over cultivation of the mind. The problem is, how to furnish work? and the only resources which will even the producing and consuming classes is to increase the wants of the producers and teach them employment." Colonel Boies explained that Frederick Pratt, one of the heirs of the Pratt estate that maintains the famed Pratt Polytechnic Institute, of Brooklyn, was prevented from being present by an attack of typhoid fever. However, he had dictated his views which would be read by General Secretary Miller, of the Twenty-third street, New York, Young Men's Christian association. Colonel Boies explained that Mr. Miller was the specially selected emissary of Mr. Pratt, and that the other international officers of the Young Men's Christian association present were well qualified to introduce the discussion.

The reference of Colonel Boies to the identity and repute of the guests from abroad was the first intimation of the real purpose of the meeting. Though, in the other training which followed no special statement was made in regard to the needs of a manual training department in the Scranton association, it was pointed out that those assembled that matter was being presented them with a view toward securing their interest and support in the future.

Mr. Pratt's paper, read by Mr. Miller, was as follows: "What Industrial Training Is. There seems to be a general misunderstanding regarding the meaning of the term 'Industrial Education.' This misunderstanding has been largely brought about by the fact that we have been trying to adjust our education as our religion to the changed conditions of modern life. "The real problem of industrial or technical education is that of adapting education to practical needs of life. To be more definite, industrial education is not mere training in handicraft, though that is important, nor training in technical knowledge, though that is also essential—it is rather that broader understanding of industrial life, with its possibilities, its limitations and its demands. It is the training of the mind to see, to think, and to do—and not by the head only, but by the heart and hand as well; therefore it makes but little difference whether the training takes the form of art, of science, or of commerce, or whether it is taught in the studio, the laboratory or the office.

In this country, at least, the term 'Industrial Education' has received two distinct applications: The first, to general public school work, where it has received the name of 'manual training.' Briefly, it means the addition of shopwork and drawing to the regular studies, with the idea of supplementing the science, mathematics, history and English with the other training which will turn out all-around men. We must never forget that the public school has no right to teach trade, but it has a right, and, further, it is the duty to train those students who, in this country, in habits of complete living and doing. "The other application of the term is to that kind of work commonly seen in Europe and more seldom seen here, of special or technical training in day or evening classes. It is of this phase of work and of its developments in the Young Men's Christian association that I shall speak briefly in this evening. When we consider that six-sevenths of our youth leave school at the age of 14, and only one per cent. continue to attend school in colleges and 4 per cent. in high school; in short, that 6 per cent. only go to the best life; that 94 per cent. therefore leave school before the age of six weeks and enter factories and business, we get some idea of the serious need only for the existence of the Young Men's Christian association in general, but its special opportunities in the industrial field.

Important Branch of Work. In the order of the development of the work of the Young Men's Christian association, the educational is the last, and this not because it is of less value, but because it is the most difficult to carry out. It is not being recognized, in this organization, as in other agencies, as most powerful and consequently, while it is only one of the three aims of the association, it is, just now, the most discussed and sought to be carried out. Why the association should take up this educational work in view of what the public schools are doing, and what the institutional church are doing; and yet, it seems to me, it is a special work for the Young Men's Christian association as for no other organization: First, because the association reaches all classes and consequently, while it is only one of the three aims of the association, it is, just now, the most discussed and sought to be carried out. Why the association should take up this educational work in view of what the public schools are doing, and what the institutional church are doing; and yet, it seems to me, it is a special work for the Young Men's Christian association as for no other organization: First, because the association reaches all classes and consequently, while it is only one of the three aims of the association, it is, just now, the most discussed and sought to be carried out.

DO NOT LIKE SINGERLY. Central Labor Union Passes Resolutions Denouncing the Democratic Candidate for Governor for His Attitude Toward Organized Labor—T. V. Powderly Thanked.

At a meeting of the Central Labor Union of this city, held Monday night, the following resolutions denouncing William M. Singerly, the Democratic candidate for governor, were unanimously passed: "Inasmuch as it is the duty of the workman to be an active and watchful citizen, he should carefully weigh every word of industry, or man is opposed to the just recognition and reward of labor, it behooves the worker to seek elsewhere for better measures and purer men. "The present campaign for the office of Governor has proven himself to be an avowed enemy of labor, and whose record in that respect is so clear and so full of revolting down processes of labor, its product and its price. "Whereas, William M. Singerly without just cause or provocation declared war upon the Typographical union, which is represented in this body, and locked out of his office on the 15th of December, 1891, therefore, Resolved, That we extend to Hon. T. V. Powderly the sincere thanks of this body for his many letters of condemnation of William M. Singerly, and request that the Central Labor Union of this city use all honorable means to make his defeat so crushing that all his life he will remember that organized labor still lives. James Roach, Secretary.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION. Tendered Last Night at Boies Residence to Members of Y. M. C. A.

The chrysanthemum reception tendered by Colonel and Mrs. H. M. Boies at their residence on Clay avenue yesterday to the members of the Young Men's Christian association proved a delightful affair. About 125 young ladies were present early in the evening and were dispersed over the numerous conservatories and rose-houses. In the main conservatory the chrysanthemums were neatly catalogued and prominent among the exquisite specimens were the "poodle," a valuable and superb flower. "The Mrs. Thomas Dickson," the "Jenny," "The Boies," which was raised by the colonel and was the center of attraction. "The Good Gracious" plant was also highly admired for its stately beauty, and also "The Bertha McCurdy," named after the energetic secretary of the Young Men's Christian association. The "G. W. Childs" was highly lauded by the ladies, who, with every eye, and the dark red flower attracted many admiring expressions. "The Harry Sunderbruck" however, seemed to be the highest of the high, in the opinion of the ladies, and made a noble background.

The ferns comprised numerous species, colors and sizes, and orange and banana trees were objects of much discussion. The oranges were green and not expected to ripen until next summer. The palms are colossal in proportions and made a noble background. Among the music of the evening a special feature was observed in a masculine orchestra combining real instruments, drums, bells, etc., and other accessories of the orchestra. Sixty four tunes were played during the evening. Mrs. Boies and other ladies entertained the guests with a delicious and unassuming in voting that an unusually pleasant evening had been spent.

INJUNCTION PERMANENT.

Double Track Will Not Go Down on Franklin Avenue Just Yet. The preliminary injunction secured by the Franklin avenue property owners against the Valley Passenger Railway company and Scranton Traction company was yesterday made permanent by Judge Gunster.

The following property owners immediately applied for a preliminary injunction against the Scranton Traction company, the Peoples' Street Railway company, of Luzerne county, and the Scranton Suburban Railway company: J. J. Berwick, James L. Connell, J. E. Mogargel, Joseph Levy, Scranton Packing company, Carl Lorenz, Charles B. Scott, S. W. Keller, James Jordan, I. Menzies, C. W. Corson, W. P. Davis, E. J. Horn, D. W. Burr, William H. White and J. J. Jermyn. Attorneys I. H. Burns and Watson & Diehl are their legal representatives. This latter action is taken to preclude the attempt of the company to lay tracks under the charter of some other corporation. The reasons filed in the prayer of the injunction are, forth a double track will make it impossible for people doing wholesale and jobbing business on Franklin avenue to occupy the street for the purpose of loading and unloading goods at their respective wholesale stores, jobbing houses and factories, and the street will be nearly destroyed for public travel, and great and irreparable injury will result therefrom to the property holders, and that the traveling public will be greatly inconvenienced and deprived of privileges of new enjoyment and are by law entitled to.

The hearing will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Charge Is Common Scold. Mrs. Susan Stiles yesterday entered bail before Judge Gunster to answer a charge of being a common scold. P. J. Fallon entered bail to answer a charge of being a common scold. William Walsh became his security in the sum of $50.

Robert Burns Lodge of Odd Fellows Celebrated the Event Last Night. The Programme Consisted of Vocal, Instrumental and Literary Numbers—The Hall Was Handsomely Decorated in Patriotic Colors.

The regular meeting of Robert Burns lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, No. 859, last night was a coincidence with the twenty-first anniversary of the inauguration of the lodge. The business of the session was concluded early and the meeting hall in the Odd Fellows building on Lackawanna avenue was made ready for celebrating the happy occasion.

At 8 o'clock the wives and daughters began to arrive and were seated. The room was decorated appropriately, and from above the presiding officer's chair beamed a banner with a medallion life size bust of the poet Burns inscribed on it. Captain James Moir was presiding officer. Mrs. Kate Sullivan sang and was encored, Frank Szydym and class went through the evolutions of a scarf drill. William Emerich sang a tenor solo and was heartily encored. Mail Carrier Joshua Thomas favored the audience with one of his choice recitations and the colored Magnolia quartet sang two tuneful plantation melodies. Attorney Wm. G. Crawford, Thomas was the orator of the evening and delivered an eloquent address on fraternal obligations of members toward one another. Professor Harry and Miss Lillian Hammett executed a piano duo and a banjo and piano duet. Miss Etta Green delivered a recitation, Miss Lillian Hammett executed a piano solo and was heartily encored. Refreshments and cigars were served after the entertainment and everybody departed with wishes of further usefulness and continued prosperity as the portion of Robert Burns lodge.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

A Great Orchestral Treat Was Given at the Frothingham. The Frothingham management is to be congratulated on the orchestra treat provided for patrons last evening in the concert given by the White orchestra, assisted by some talented vocalists. The concert opened by the overture "Norma," and the style and taste, upheld the wide reputation of the White orchestra and the talented conductor, George Nollie B. Chandler. The soprano soloist, Miss Florence E. Beckert, was heartily applauded for the delightful execution of the "Caprice de Colonne," and "The Song of the Sea." The other items sustained the excellence of the programme. D. A. Evans acted as accompanist.
